

New cabins keep dotting the Monte Verde hillsides with the one in this issue belonging to Yamil and his wife. As it always goes they bought and built because a friend did and they wanted to be beside them on weekends.

→†

→†

→†

→†

→†

→†

→†

→†

These folks are accomplishing exactly what we had in mind. They are already employing several locals in grounds maintenance and being supportive of the community in significant ways.

During the week Yamil's live the typical American hectic pace with their sales of cologne throughout the country, they love the fresh air of the mountains on weekends and their new cabin.

→†

→†

→†

→†

The view from their front porch will take your breath away! It is a blessing to get to know more and more people as these communities continue to grow!

Nat Yoder